Excerpt from Eighteenth Annual Meeting and Banquet of the Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish Society at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia: February 28th, 1907 But the pertinent inquiry for us is, what use are we making of our blood, brains, and patriotism? Are we simply manifesting our blood in our bearing and utilizing our brains and our patriotism for the acquisition of pie? For there is a form of patriotism hardly distinguishable from selfishness but it is not the patriotism of our forefathers. Or are we earnestly, zealously, and wisely laboring for the upbuilding and advancement of the people of this great commonwealth and this great nation? Are our efforts tending towards the true progress of this people, or are we satisfied with merely protecting and maintaining the status quo? It is related that a detachment of United States troops was. Once crossing the western plains, and became hungry and weary, and anxiously longed to reach their destination. Meeting a rancher, they inquired the distance to their destination, and were informed that it was some two miles away. For a full hour they plodded along, without a sign of the point, and, meeting a second rancher, inquired of him the distance, and were informed that it was about two miles away. They marched on for a half hour longer, and meeting a third rancher, and making of him the same inquiry, they were informed that it was not over two miles away. It was at this point that the doughty sergeant in command, with some effort at encouragement, exclaimed, Well, thank the Lord we are at least holding our own. But holding our own is not making progress; nor does it evidence a very...
